THE AIR NAUTIQUE WAKE GAMES RETURNS TO ORLANDO FOR ITS SECOND CONSECUTIVE YEAR

Orlando, FLA (April 8, 2008) – Correct Craft will once again sponsor the Air Nautique Wake Games which will officially kick off the professional wakeboard season. It will be held at the Orlando Watersports Complex from April 24-27. Correct Craft's Super Air Nautique 210 and 230 models are the exclusive towboats for this event.

The Air Nautique Wake Games is a unique experience in that pro and amateur riders alike are able to compete individually in their disciplines as well as come together to form teams that vie for a cash prize. This is especially exciting for the junior riders who are able to compete alongside the pro riders and contribute to their teams' successes.

At the 2007 Air Nautique Wake Games, Team Murray, led by Nautique pro rider Shaun Murray, won the team competition and Murray took third overall. This year, team riders J.D. Webb, Shaun Murray and Danny Harf will represent Nautique as captains during the team competition at the Wake Games. These three along with many other Nautique athletes will compete against each other along with top riders from around the world.

"We are excited to begin the 2008 wakeboard season with the Air Nautique Wake Games as one of the premier professional events of the year," stated Correct Craft's President/CEO Bill Yeargin. "The Wake Games showcases a unique blend of individual and team competition that can only be found at this event. The Nautique team is proud to be a part of such an interactive event that is fun for the entire family."

Bill Yeargin's blog entry regarding the 2008 Air Nautique Wake Games can be read in the "Nautique Insider" section of the Nautique website at www.nautiques.com.
